Dr. Olds-An Incident .- Once on a time, Dr. Olds, in one of his electioneering tours was travelling with a friend in a stage coach, and had a fellow passenger, whom the doctor set down as one of the 'green 'uns' As the story runs, the individual had recently married, and was on a visit to one of his country uncles, and the doctor thinking it a good chance to exercise his bump of wit, embraced the opportunity, and had what he deemed 'his own fun' out of his companion. Under the joint influence of the doctor and his friend, the green 'un soon fell into a deep sleep from which he did not awaken until their arrival at the next relay house. Upon awakening, with a somewhat troubled stare the doctor asked him 'if he had had a good nap? 'Oh! v-e-e-s.' replied the green 'un, with a yawn, 'werry' good, only I had a pad dreams' 'And what was that?" asked the doctor. 'Vell, replied dreamer, 'I will dell you. 'Blow,' whispered the fair orarate treaty, concluded and ratified between ganists. 'Blow,' repeated the leader, and Blow! echoed the entire choir, but not a puff found its way into the vacant pipes, to wake the slumbering harmony. An investigation now took place, and Patrick was found behind the organ-with both of his hands tightly clenched around the bellows-handle (a stick of some five feet long and two inches thick,) the end stuck in his mouth, his cheeks swelled to the utmost expansion, his eyes distended, and perspiration streaming from his face-engaged in the vigirous but vain attempt to force his breath through the pores of the wood into the hody of the instrument. It is, perhaps, unnecessary to say that some little time pass before the choir were able to
